

Conflict Dynamics Profile (CDP) Certification Workshop
Lakewood, Colorado

October 7, 2011

Sponsored by Three Trusts, Inc.

The Leadership Development Center at Eckerd College, an affiliate of the Center for Creative Leadership (CCL), developed the Conflict Dynamics Profile for use in their leadership programs. In addition to the CDP-360° they created an individual version (CDP-I) for use in training line employees, team building, and to promote system wide culture change.

Developed in accordance with rigorous test construction standards of the American Psychological Association, the CDP is a psychometrically valid multi-rater assessment tool. Founded on a solid academic research, the CDP comes with a Development Guide that emphasizes pragmatic behavioral skills. The CDP is the best tool available for assessing and developing conflict competency.

Workshop Objective: Participants will be capable of applying the Conflict Dynamics model and using the CDP-360° and CDP-I assessment tools to help leaders, teams, and organizations become conflict competent. This workshop emphasizes application of the CDP in a wide variety of training, consulting, counseling, and coaching situations. Upon completion of the workshop, participants receive certification from Eckerd College Leadership Development Institute allowing them to use the CDP instruments in their practice.

Presenter: Dennis M. Dennis, PhD is a licensed organizational psychologist with over 30 years of experience in the conflict field. He served as Assistant Secretary of Health (Washington State), vice president of human resources, and graduate faculty member in organization development. Dennis is a charter member of the Advisory Board at Eckerd College's Center for Conflict Dynamics (CCD), which has certified him as a CDP Master Trainer. <http://www.linkedin.com/in/dennis2>
